FALSE ALARM SENT IN. Ananias Dyson in Custody Charged With the Offense.

locked up on a charge of turning in a false alarm sounded from box 264 by Dyson for fire in Nash's flats, near the head of 8th street extended. The fire gained a little headway before the fire department arheadway before the fire department arrived, and the damage amounted to about $200. Dyson enjoyed the novel experience of turning in an alarm and seeing the fire companies respond, and about two hours later, it is alleged, he turned in the false alarm. He was not near the box when the firemen and policemen responded, but Detective Howard learned he was the responsible party. He denied the charge when the officer arrested him.

THE WORLD OF SOCIETY

Senator Clark's Daughter to Marry in Engagement of Miss Clark and Dr.

Katherine Stauffer Clark, the youngest daughter of Senator William A. Clark of Montana, to Dr. Lewis Rutherford Morris of New York. The wedding day is set for an early date in June, and the ceremony will take place at St. Thomas Church, New York city. The honeymoon will be spent in Europe, and upon their re-turn the couple will reside in New York. Miss Clark is a charming young woman, extremely accomplished, a good linguist, and inherits her father's love of the fine arts, especially painting and music. While she has traveled all over Europe with her father, who has spent a part of every year abroad for the past twenty years, her tastes are essentially American. Many titled foreigners have been eager to offer their old-world honors to this wealthy their old-world honors to this wealthy heiress, but all met with the same discouragement. Her fiance, Dr. Morris, is a descendant of Lewis Morris of Morrisania, N. Y., one of the signers of the Declaration of Independence. His father is J. Rutherford Morris of Morris, N. Y., and his mother was a Miss Howe, daughter of Prof. Henry E. Howe of Canandaigua, N. Y. Dr. Morris is the present owner of Manor House and the surrounding estate, which was granted by the First Congress to Lewis Morris in lieu of family property at Morrisania destroyed by continental troops to prevent its falling into the hands of the British. The present home of the Morris family, now standing in Morris, N. Y., was built by General Jacob Morris, an aid-decamp of General Charles Lee and General Greene of the continental army. Dr. Morris, who is a member of the Sons of the Revolution, the New York Academy of Medicine, the Calumet, Century and Metropolitan clubs, has been a practicing physician in New York for the past fifteen years. Dr. Everett Mallory Culver, son-inlaw of Senator Clark, and Dr. Morris have been close friends since 1884, when the latter was a student and the former was house physician at Bellevue Hospital, New York Senator Clark's New York home is in one of the largest apartment houses on 58th street, pending the completion of his magnificent new residence overlooking Central Park. The senator's picture gallery is extensive, the walls of two large rooms beheiress, but all met with the same disstreet, pending the completion of his magnificent new residence overlooking Central Park. The senator's picture gallery is extensive, the walls of two large rooms being covered with fine canvases. There are a number of others in the music and drawing rooms and library. Lately more than ordinary attention has been directed to the senator's collection by his purchase of a Fortuny-"Choosing the Model"—for which he paid $52,000. Senator Clark's knowledge and fine discrimination in selecting his pictures makes them the delight of connoisseurs. Last Sunday afternoon Mrs. Culver received a number of friends, who were charmingly entertained by several artists, and afterward enjoyed a view of the pictures. Senator Clark was also at home from Washington over Sunday. Miss Clark is now happily recovering from a severe attack of grip. Possibly she and Mrs. Culver will make a short visit to Senator Clark here next month, when their Washington friends will have an opportunity to extend their congratulations in person.

SOME OPINIONS OF VALUE

Let me, unsolicited, say that I went to the theater tonight in a very nervous condition, suffering from a bad headache caused by loss of sleep. Certainly I was in no condition to do justice to my play or my auditors. Your agent had sent me a bottle of "Kafriko," Something in the shape and style of bettle caught my fancy-trifies often decide hig events in one's life-and I decided to take a dose of Kafriko, for I reasoned that it could not possibly make me feel worse than I did. The effect was aimost momentary. In half an hour I tried again, and let me say that, at once, my headache vanished, and with it "that tired feeling," and I have never done greater justice to any part I have ever played.
